NEW TOP O' THE KORNER OPENED TO PACKED HOUSE

Kitten's Korner opened its new addition Top O' the Korner Monday night with apacked house and with recording and television star Roy Hamilton headlining the three shows at 8, 10 p.m. and midnight.

On the same bill with the vocalist, who has been called "the Golden Boy with the Golden Voice," will be night club comedian Stagg McMann and the Nita Gonzales Quintet who will play between shows.

The elegantly intimate Top O' the Korner, which has all of its physical accouterments covered in velvet, will feature top names in the entertainment field in keeping with a new policy to spotlight outstanding vocalist and comedians. In months to come The Four Lads, January Jones, Dick Contino and the Harmonicats will appear in the new addition to Kitten's Korner.

When asked why the club was bringing in the big names, Milt Allen, co-owner, said, "We felt that Atlanta has been ready for this type of entertainment for a long time. The city is becoming more cosmopolitan and so are the people. When they go out on the town at night they want to see good entertainment."

Top O' the Korner has its own private entrance.

Downstairs the musical emphasis will continue to be on the go-go sound.

ATLANTA'S WHISKY 'A GO GO PRESENTS TRIPLE THREAT HANK BALLARD & THE MIDNIGHTERS

Atlanta's Whisky 'a Go Go will present a triple feature this week for one week only.

King Records sensational singing star Hank Ballard and The Midnighters open a one week engagement at the popular discotheque club, along with ABC Paramount records Tommy Roe, plus the talented singing and instrumental group The Classics.

Hank Ballard, a native of Detroit, now calls Atlanta his home, although he is very seldom here due to a continuous national tour. He started his singing career at age fifteen and enjoyed a moderate rise to stardom, being signed by King Records in 1952. He held the all time record for the most number of hits on the National Best Sellers Charts at one time, until it was broken by The Beatles.

Among his big ones were, "LET'S GO, LET'S GO, SUGAREE, WORK WITH ME ANNIE, and THE TWIST, a song he wrote and recorded at the advent of the national dance craze.

Appearing along with Ballard are the equally famous recording stars, The Midnighters, a top drawer singing group since 1954.

Along with the three headlining groups will be the lovely Go Go Girls, a study of near-perpetual motion at your table. The Fabulous Royals continue to entertain during the cocktail hour.

SOUTHERN BOAT AND SPORTSMAN SHOW OPENS HERE FEBRUARY 4

Over One Million Dollars worth of boats, motors, camping equipment and other outdoor sporting equipment will be on display at the Fourth Annual Southern Boat and Sportsman Show February 4th thru February 12 in the Atlanta Merchandice Mart.

Two complete floors of the Mart (60,000 square feet) will serve as a showcase for the coming year's new designs in equipment for sports enthusiasts.

Atlanta's Mayor Ivan Allen, Jr., will snip the ribbon to open tht show officially at 5:00 P.M. on Friday, February 4th. That same evening one of Georgia's lovely Belles will be chosen to reign as Queen of the 1966 Southern Boat and Sportsman Show. Her court will include other lovely young ladies who will reign as Miss Hunting, Miss Fishing, Miss Camping and Miss Boating.

These, and many other beautiful girls, will serve as guides and hostesses for the Show dressed in fetching and "show-stealing buccaneer costumes.

A feature of the show will be a large variety of prizes, including a Grand Prize of a Sea Ray Runabout, complete with a Mercury "500" motor and Murray trailer.

Other prizes include such items as water skis, fishing tackle, hunting and camping gear, transistor radios, outboard motors and other marine accesories.

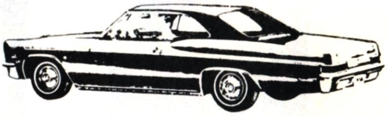
Another feature will be "Trout Fishing on Peachtree" . . . fishing for live trout in a large tank with rods, reels, and bait provided free - - a very popular attraction for young and old alike at past shows.

But the stars of the Show, as always, will be the array of boats which range in size from luxury cabin cruisers and houseboats to canoes and fisherman's skiffs.

This year's Show will feature a larger than usual display of sailboats . . . an acknowledgement of the rapidly increasing interest in this highly challenging form of water sport all over Georgia and the Southeast, according to sponsors of the Show.

This year's Show will also serve as kick-off for the Marine Trade Association of Metropolitan Atlanta's campaign to encourage year-round boating activity and tourism.

"I don't mind paying a little less"



If you don't mind paying a little less next time you rent a car then call AIRWAYS—one of the nation's leading rent-a-car systems. With AIRWAYS you save money because you're not paying for high overhead airport facilities. There's really no convenience in having a desk at the airport because you're not saving time so why pay for it?—Especially when one phone call will get you a brand new 1965 Chevrolet Impala or any other fine car. And AIRWAYS' lower rates always include gas, oil and insurance. So, if you don't mind paying a little less, call AIRWAYS. We'll probably arrive before your luggage.

Credit Cards Accepted.

"BRAGG'S GAGS"

By

Lark Bragg

One day my youngest daughter bragged that she had developed an entirely new personality. I made her wash it off.

There is only one way to handle a woman. The trouble is, nobody knows what it is.

My wife Mary served me so many TV dinners, it's like a conditioned reflex. I see a piece of aluminum foil and right away I get hungry.

I read where archeologists in Henderson, Wyo., have uncovered some 2000-year-old bones that they claim belonged either to a dinosaur or a huge hunch-backed barmaid.

It's very English for food and atmosphere - The Lion's Head Inn.

Woman to bridge club members: "I have the most marvelous recipe for goulast — all I have to do is mention it to my husband and he says 'Let's eat out,."

"He was a quiet man,
He never laughed or played;
He never drank - he never smoked,
He never kissed a girl - and
When he up and passed away,
Insurance was denied,
For never having ever lived,
They claimed he never died."

The secret of success is knowing how to put your best foot forward without stepping on someone's toes.

SPARKS OF LAUGHTER

A woman wrote a letter to Ann Landers, "Dear Ann, should I tell my fiance I wear false teeth?" Miss Landers replied, "Just marry him and keep your mouth shut."

The worst kind of reducing pill is the one who keeps telling you how he did it.

It was a pleasant summer evening and the young man had been parked on the girl's front porch for hours. "Would you like to take a walk?" she suggested at last. "I'd love to," he agreed. "Well, then," she retorted, yawning, "don't let me stop you."

"The younger generation expects too much," declared a self-made man to a younger fellow. "I didn't always have this fine car, you know. When I first started out in life, I had to walk." "You were lucky at that," retorted the young man with a chuckle. "When I started out in life I couldn't even walk."

The train was bound for Miami. The conductor was collecting tickets. He spied a figure crouched beneath a seat. He approached and saw it was a little old wrinkled man. "Let's have your ticket," he demanded.

The old man crawled out of his hiding place. "Please, sir," he begged. "I don't have a ticket. I'm poor. I can't afford one. But my only daughter is getting married n Miami tonight. I've got to get there for the wedding."

A gentle and sentimental man, the conductor was visibly affected by the story. "Okay," he muttered. "You can ride the train. But sit in the men's room and keep out of the way."

The conductor then continued down the aisle. He spied another old man hiding behind a seat. "You there," he shouted, "Where's your ticket?" Said the second oldster. "What ticket? I don't know anything about a ticket. My friend invited me to the wedding."

Here's to the girls who have practiced enough to be able to kiss like amateurs.

BARN DINNER THEATER PRESENTS "FANTASTIC TWENTIES" MUSICAL PLAY

A singing, swinging musical play, "The Fantastic Twenties", is the fare for February at the Barn Dinner Theater. The new play begins February 2nd and ends its run on the 28th.

Complete with rolled-stockinged, spit-curled, high hemmed flappers, a speakeasy, a mobster and a T-Man, "The Fantastic Twenties" will evoke some nostalgia for the slightly senior Barn patrons. Younger playgoers can take the cast's word for it that there was plenty of action in the olden days, between World War I and the Great Stock Crash.

There's a plot going on between the humable songs and the lively dances. Treasury Agent must infiltrate a speakeasy which uses an ice cream parlor as a front. He enlists the aid of his fiancee, who favors sudden marriage, and her girl friend. They become flapper girls in the Club Hot Stuff. The gangster runs the club and his girl friend, in turn, runs him. She wants class. The henpecked gangster has a rough time of it, what with his sweetheart, the U. S. Treasury Department and an underworld rival all giving him a constant fit.

The play's men are straight out of the Volstead era and the flappers are both pretty and peppy, well-endowed with fine voices and otherwise. As always, The Barn's play is preceded by a gourmet dinner at 7:00 P.M. At 8:30 the "Magic Stage" descends and the show goes on. Reservations are necessary.

SKITCH HENDERSON DINES AT HERREN'S

Skitch Henderson was the honored guest at Herren's Restaurant Saturday, January 8, a couple of hours prior to his concert at the Municipal Auditorium. Genial host and owner of Herren,s, Ed Negri, is shown at left welcoming Skitch to the restaurant. Skitch Henderson has recorded the Herren's commercials and has taken a special interest in the quarter-century old Atlanta restaurant. Pictured above are (left to right), Ed Negri; Skitch Henderson and Ellen Negri. Mr. Henderson selected one of the specialties of the house, prime ribs of beef, for his entre at dinner.

A SHOVE MADE HIM A HERO

It happened on a luxury cruise in the Caribbean. As the liner headed for Jamaica, a man shouted: "Overboard! Overboard! My daughter has just fallen overboard!"

Peopue crowded around the overwrought man. "I'm rich," he shouted, "very rich. I'll give $100,000 to any man who rescues my daughter."

There was a splash, then the figure of a little man swimming like mad to rescue the girl.

The liner was stopped, a boat lowered, and presently the rich man's daughter and her rescuer were pulled aboard.

Said the grateful millionaire: "You've saved my daughter's life. Please come to my cabin and let me give you my check for $100,000."

"To hell with that," said the little hero. "Just point ou the guy who shoved me."

HE COULDN'T MISS

Two friends went duck-hunting. One equipped himself with a jug of martinis, the other with a jug of hot coffee. As they waited in the duck blind for the ducks to fly over, each took a swig from his jug. As it got colder both men drank more and more. Suddenly they heard the flapping of wings. One lone duck appeared overhead. Both men reached for their shotguns.

The man who had been drinking coffee took careful aim and missed. The martini-drinker casually raised his gun, fired, brought down the duck.

The coffee-drinker spoke with unstinting admiration. "Gosh," he exclaimed, "that was a simply marvelous shot—so easy, so quick, so accurate!"

"You must be kidding," answered his drunk friend. "With a flock like that, I shoulda brought down at least six."

A disturbed kangaroo went to see his psychiatrist. "Doctor," he said. "I don't know what's wrong with me. I don't seem to be jumpy lately."

JOKE'S ON WHO?

"Look here," said the boss to the clerk, "What does this mean? Someone just phoned and said you were sick and wouldn't be in the office today."

The clerk thought for a moment and then burst out laughing. "Ha! Ha! The joke's on him. He wasn't supposed to call in until next week."
